DR. BORDEN'S AUTO HITS POLICEMAN; HORSE KILLS HIM

Physician Fails to See Mounted Officers in Fog and Crashes Into One.

Driving his own automobile in the thick fog that lay over Flushing at midnight, Dr. Matthew S. Borden of No. 216 West Seventy-ninth street, who inherited a third of the estate of his late father, M. C. D. Borden, multi-millionaire textile manufacturer, ran down a mounted policeman, after he had steered the machine into a telegraph pole to avoid hitting him. The policeman, John Mee, died in Flushing Hospital five hours later of a fractured skull, suffered when his mount stepped on his head.

Mee and a fellow policeman, Abraham Newman, were riding to their posts of duty in an outlying district, and had reached the corner of Fourteenth street and Broadway, when they heard Dr. Borden's car, running with the muffler cut-out open, approaching through the fog. Not being able to locate the machine by the sound of the exhaust, they pulled in toward the sidewalk to wait for it to pass.

Dr. Borden, accompanied by two friends from Manhattan, was returning from Great Neck at good speed and did not see the policeman until the auto was almost upon them. When he realized that a collision was inevitable, he swung his steering wheel sharply and turned the machine, side on, into a telegraph pole. HORSE'S HOOF FRACTURES SKULL OF POLICEMAN.

Mee's horse was very close to the pole, and when the machine struck, its rear swung around and took the policeman's mount from beneath him. Horse and rider fell in a heap on the wet asphalt and, before Newman could dismount to help, the frightened animal had tried to run. Its heavily shod head came down on the back of Mee's head, tearing a jagged hole in his skull. The occupants of the auto were thrown into the street.

As soon as Dr. Borden could straighten his car around, he and Newman, assisted by John R. Langford of the Plaza Hotel, and John R. Gilman of No. 78 Greenwich avenue, Manhattan, who were in the car with him, put the injured policeman into the tonneau and drove with all speed for the hospital.

There Dr. Joseph H. Bloodgood of Flushing performed an immediate

SEVEN ENGULFED BY QUICKSAND AS 30 RACE FOR LIFE

Victims Overtaken by Slide That Rapidly Fills Mine—Others Narrowly Escape.

IRON RIVER, Mich., July 15.—Seven miners were engulfed and killed by a quicksand in the Balkan mine at the Alpha location near here today when the sliding sand caused a cave-in.

The miners were drilling into a roof when the drill hit a quicksand and, with a shout, the men, about thirty in number, began a rush for the mouth of the tunnel. Seven of the miners were overtaken and killed by the quicksand, which filled every crevice in the mine. The bodies cannot be taken out for weeks.

The rest of the men ran from the rush of sand. Two were caught while trying to reach a ladder. One of these was compelled to pull off his clothing, and he struggled naked from the mine. The other man lost his boots, which were caught and which he kicked off.

Halibut Trust Indictments.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 15.—The Federal Grand Jury today returned indictments under the Sherman Anti-Trust law against the members of the so-called Halibut Trust, which controls most of the halibut caught in the North Atlantic, North Pacific and Behring Sea and sold in the United States.

MRS. CARMAN ASKS JURY TO HEAR HER TESTIMONY

Signs a Statement Waiving Immunity and Giving Permission to Have Her Testimony Used Against Her.

Following the announcement this afternoon that Frank Farrell, a witness before the Nassau County Grand Jury, had furnished damaging corroboration of the story told yesterday by Celia Coleman, the negro maid, Mrs. Florence Carman submitted a written request that she be allowed to go before the Grand Jury and testify in her own behalf under waiver of immunity. This move is unprecedented in criminal procedure in New York.

District Attorney Smith had decided that he would not allow Mrs. Carman to go before the Grand Jury. In view of the fact that she is accused of the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey, Mr. Smith scented a legal trick in Mrs. Carman's insistent demand, voiced through counsel, that she be given permission to appear as a Grand Jury witness.

It is a question whether such an appearance does not automatically immunize an accused person. Mrs. Carman's petition read as follows: "To the District Attorney and Grand Jury of Nassau County: 'I, the undersigned, do respectfully petition the Grand Jury now investigating the murder of Mrs. Lulu D. Bailey for permission to go before your body and make a statement in reference to any knowledge I may have in reference to the charge against me. 'I make this petition voluntarily and hereby waive any immunity which ordinarily would be afforded me by reason of making any such a statement, and I waive any and all rights, constitutional and statutory, which might belong to me relative to going before the Grand Jury; and I want no protection of any kind afforded me by reason of any statement I may make before the Grand Jury. 'If I am permitted to go before the Grand Jury I hereby admit that such action will be entirely of my own desire and volition and at no solicitation of the Grand Jury. I am willing that any statement I may make before the Grand Jury may be used against me at any future trial or hearing. 'FLORENCE A. CARMAN.' The petition did not move the District Attorney. He said he would advise the Grand Jury to refuse the request of Mrs. Carman. This position he held despite assertions of Dr. Carman and Lawyer George Levy. Mrs. Carman's counsel, that he expressly stipulated that Mrs. Carman would be allowed to go before the Grand Jury.

WANTS TO END INQUIRY AS SOON AS POSSIBLE.

All possible speed was made with the Carman case this afternoon in the hope that it might be wound up by night. It is the first conviction of the prosecuting officers that Mrs. Carman will be indicted immediately the taking of testimony is concluded. Anticipating a speedy windup of the investigation, Mrs. Carman sent word out of jail today that she would like to make a statement to
